New Regulations Govern Operators and Truck Owners

As a result of the passing by the last session of the state legislature of Senate Bill No. 329 and Assembly Bill No. 944, all trucks hauling for compensation are now under the supervision of the State Railroad Commission.

Truck owners and operators who come within this classification are now required, (as a pre-requisite to their obtaining a permit to operate); to either post a $15,000 guarantee bond with the commission or deposit with the same body a public liability and property damage insurance policy with limits of $5,000-$10,000 and $5,000, respectively, according to information received by Wallace H. Gilbert, local insurance agent, who is equipped to furnish all information relative to the recent legislation as well as furnish the required bonds.

night was removed to the Jared Sidney Torrance Memorial hospital, where he passed away shortly before 12:30 noon on Monday. Yesterday afternoon, his mortal remains were tenderly laid to rest in the Inglewood Park cemetery.

Funeral services, conducted at Stone & Myers chapel at 2:30 p. m., were brief but impressive. Many beautiful floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which Jim Leech was held in life. Rev. George G. Elder, of the First Christian church, read his obituary and spoke of his worth as a man and a citizen, a friend, a loving husband and father. John Williams, of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, of which Mr. Leech had been a devout member, sang two of his favorite songs, "One Sweetly Solenn Thought" and "Hold Thou My Hand," songs that Mr. Leech had loved and sung many times. Members of the Kiwanis Club, of which he had been a moving spirit, acted as pall bearers.

In his ten years of residence in Torrance, and in his business as manager of the Bank of America, Jim Leech became well and favorably known to almost everyone in the city. His jovial nature in his social associations endeared him to all, and his ability and rigid adherence to right and duty in carrying out his business earned him the admiring respect of those who dealt with him.

James Weston Leech was born July 5, 1882, in Morgan Park, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago. When he was a boy of 17, his father impressed upon Jim and his brothers that the time had come for them to take up some of the responsibility for their maintenance. Jim took the advice seriously and immediately started out to look for a job. He tramped the streets of Chicago, and followed up many a lead without success. The young lad's ambition had been to become a surgeon, but for financial reasons this was immediately out of the question.

One day, as he was passing the quarters of one of the largest banking institutions in Chicago, the lettering on the front door caught his eye. "Hours from 10 to 3," was the legend. "This is pretty soft," said Jim to himself. "If I can get in here, I can work from 10 to 3 and have plenty of time to study. The money I earn will pay my way through college."

He went in, and got a job as messenger, but, said Mrs. Leech in telling the incident, "This was where Jim made a big mistake. He was told to come to work at 7 in the morning, and he worked from that hour until as late as 10 o'clock at night, running errands for the bank staff. His dream of a soft job from 10 to 3, was over."

Jim stayed on at this institution for ten years and rose to be chief clerk. Later he extended his banking experience through many localities, Phoenix, Tucson, Arizona; Albuquerque, New Mexico; and finally to California where he helped to organize the National Bank of Hermosa Beach. Later he found conditions there not to his liking and found an opportunity in Torrance when the former State Exchange Bank was sold to the Bank of Italy.

Later this bank became, as it is now known, the Bank of America, and under Jim Leech's effective guidance has become one of the leading business institutions in Torrance.

In 1918, Mr. Leech married Miss Harriet Vull, the wedding taking place in Tucson, Arizona. He leaves besides his widow, four sons, George, Weston, Richard and Robert; and one sister, Mrs. Amy Duden, of Long Beach.

Columbia Steel Bids On Power Line

Bids for the construction of the 230,000-volt transmission line to carry power from Boulder dam to points along the Colorado river were being tabulated and analyzed yesterday by the electrical division of the Metropolitan Water District. Apparently, it was stated, the low bid was submitted by Fritz Ziebart, of Long Beach, who offered $18,528,09.

Other bidders were the Columbia Steel of Torrance, the Columbia of Los Angeles, Alta Electrical and Mechanical Company of San Francisco, and the Forney Engineering Company of Dallas, Texas. The contract has not yet been awarded.

Picture of Last Stagecoach Is Valued Curio

Lomita Man Has Unique Collection of Postal Service Data

Arthur T. Scott, Lomita resident, who is an ardent collector of stamps, cachets, and also of historical facts and interesting data concerning the postal service, is the owner of a kodak picture of the last stage coach, carrying mail, passengers and express to operate in the United States. The picture is included in a large scrapbook, containing Scott's collection of material, and is an interesting memento of the old four-horse stage days. It was taken in 1905.

Shortly after that date the completion of the railroad put out of business the stage operating between Casper and Landers, Wyoming, a distance of 150 miles, a star route out of Casper. Horses were changed every 15 to 20 miles and the route was covered in 30 hours. Capacity of the stage was 15 persons including the driver, but the owner of the picture humorously comments that sometimes a larger number was squeezed in for the trip, comfort being sacrificed for the sake of getting the passenger.

Mr. Scott's scrapbook also contains several photos of the first ship to shore experiment in handling mail, when the 666-year blimp picked up mail from a ship returning from Honolulu to be brought ashore and delivered to the postoffice in San Pedro.

In connection with stamp collections, which is of widespread interest all over the world, the postoffice department of the United States in three months from March 15 to June 15 of this year, sold imperforates, stamps made up for sale exclusively to collectors, to the amount of $1,663,717.66. Stamps sold by the Philatelic Agency, during the past year to collectors, amounted to $2,340,484.02, or nearly three times the amount sold in the previous year.

Imperforates are made of all new issues, and are sold in blocks of from four stamps to a full sheet. Apparently the interest in stamp collecting, always more or less active, has taken a great increase in recent years.

Forty Hour Week Effective October 1

Torrance postoffice employees are pleased at the prospect of enjoying a 40-hour week, under a new ruling of the department, which goes into effect on October 1. However, employees of the Lomita postoffice are not so well suited with the arrangement, since the ruling does not extend to offices of the third class. They will continue to work the regular number of hours.
